

Every congregation, from new church plants to established churches, is called to Kingdom growth. The Central Conference churches are actively growing the Kingdom of God through new church plants, revitalizing established churches, and other collective ministries. Often before these partnerships can be funded, support for Kingdom growth must begin in the local church.

Several resources are available to member Covenant churches seeking to develop healthy stewardship to support ministries or new endeavors.

Stewardship Seminars. The five teaching modules can be used for leadership, adult discipleship groups, worship services, or in a retreat setting. Modules address personal giving, church budgets and systems, and staff compensation and care. Contact the Conference for details about seminar modules:

- Beginning 101: Explore stewardship concepts and a foundation for personal giving.
- Growing 201: Gain insight into common stewardship questions and strategies.
- Developing 301: Discover healthy giving patterns that impact local ministry.
- Leading 401: Plan stewardship practices for the congregation with integrity and foresight.
- Caring 501: Build staff compensation that stewards both ministry and resources.
